Huzzah!

What an amazing seven years. It really doesn't seem that long, but when I look at my reflection I see that my beard has gone grey on this quest.

When we reach ten years then we are officially old ;).

We should have a real life meeting some day.

Oh my lady... 7 years?!

I think that this is a statement of what a great community we are! :D

Keep up the good work fellow warriors!

Now... where's the wine and the food?

Fantastic!

The original site was started in December 1998, adding another 7 years of dedication to Bretonnia!

Sigh... Should I quit while I am ahead and still have an award? Or should I get greedy and go for another? Well I will have to see how the fall break treats me.

Saint, there is a difference between greed and wanting a suitable prize for victory. If you think you can write a worthy piece, knock yourself out. I can't wait to read this year's stories! :) :)

The deadlines for both the Literature and Painting Competition have been extended till the 10th of December due to a general lack of submissions.

Please feel free to join in sirs if you have a particular model or story that you have yet to share with us do not hesitate to do so!

Also spread the word on other Warhammer communities - any participation is welcome if it's somehow related to Bretonnia! We now also have the new "open category", so there are even more possibilities of participating.

The more the merrier!

Speaking of merrier - I'm decidedly not! One of the pics I uploaded has been reduced to a greyish blob:
http://www.roundtable-bretonnia.org/index.php?option=com_joomgallery&func=detail&id=4908&Itemid=103

Does anyone know what happened there? The weird thing is that the thumbnail image turned out all right.

What kind of file did you upload, can you attach it here?

Best try a regular JPEG file with least compression, ideally already resized to less than 800x800px.

Re:7th anniversary of The Round Table of Bretonnia

Posted by RollantLiCavaliers1214 - 2012/12/02 13:14

Used a good old-fashioned JPEG file, as shown here:

http://www.roundtable-bretonnia.org/images/fbfiles/images/Pic_3.png

And for reasons beyond my comprehension, the pic is just fine now. Could it be this watermark thingy (that filter which adds our forum's address) which has somehow turned the pic I uploaded into the anniversary category into a puddle of goo?

I hadn't thought to enter the literature competition this year, since I haven't been around all that much. Now, I think I might just have to. It's been so long since I wrote anything Wh-related. This should be fun :)

Hey Admins and Mods,

Is there any reason why my own submission for the literature competition is failing to upload?

I have submitted several stories in the past with no problems. This time however, whenever i click on the tick button(Apply) nothing is happening.

Has my permission to submit articles been altered?

I would appreciate any help you can give as i have an entry ready and waiting.

Cheers.

EDIT*

It's seems to have finally uploaded, but the submission page kind of shut down on me.

Could you please let me know if it uploaded correctly, guys?

Posted by Uther Di Asturien - 2012/12/11 02:27

Strange, your permissions were not altered at all, and the entry seems just fine.
The editing permissions are working now, so you don't have to worry about a thing. ;)

Re:7th anniversary of The Round Table of Bretonnia

Posted by Guillaume le Courageux - 2012/12/12 23:13

Uther, is his submission received and in order? It may be a browser problem, or a security check gone wrong on the server firewall. I'll check if I find anything in the logs. It sometimes overreacts and cuts the connection if there are suspicious words or commands in a submitted text.

Edit: if your last words are "Held them, and wept." then the article arrived completely! ;)

Those are indeed the last word Guillaume, thanks!
The first letter of each paragraph should also spell something out if they all uploaded correctly as well.:P

PS, How long do we have to cast our votes on the Painting Competition entries?

Re:7th anniversary of The Round Table of Bretonnia

Posted by Guillaume le Courageux - 2012/12/18 21:21

Please vote for all submissions in the Anniversary Competition category until 26th of December. Vote only for the first picture of a series for the same miniature, or the one that already has the most votes.
